GER Launches New & Updated Company Webpage, www.ger911.com

Global Emergency Response's (GER) recently launched their new, updated website ger911.com with additional products and a new clean look.

Augusta, Georgia February 5, 2015: GER's new website, www.ger911.com, has been updated with a new look and feel to accompany GER's recent rebrand effort. The refreshed website includes user-friendly site navigation with a new graphical design that is easy to view on any screen, including mobile devices.

The new site navigations allows for quick easy access to learn about GER's products and services, including GER's flagship product, the HC Standard® software suite. The site also includes new videos that provide an in-depth look into GER and GER's products & services. An updated calendar feature shows upcoming conferences and events that GER plans to as well as other industry events.

About HC Standard®: HC Standard® is a flexible, intuitive software solution designed to help first responders track patients and their medical conditions during all types of events. HC Standard® is used by first responders throughout the United States and is a key component to incident response and management. GER's HC Standard® software allows first responders and command centers to rapidly identify patients and provide comprehensive tracking from the point of injury, through a complete continuum of care from EMS disaster response teams, to the receiving hospital, and as appropriate, to follow-on procedures including reunification of persons separated during events or disasters. The HC Standard® software suite includes: HC Patient Tracking™, HC Incident Commander™, HC HAvBED Tracking™, HC Resource Tracking™, and HC Family Reunification™.
